THEATRICAL CHATTER

Wadsworth Harris of James O'Neill's company, is a stepson of the late General Murray, who at one time was appointed United States minister at Constantinople.

Carl Stix, musician and composer and author of the once popular song, "She May Have Seen Better Days," attempted suicide by shooting last Saturday. He suffered from paralysis of the fingers and feared that he would lose the use of his hands. He was taken to Lebanon hospital and is not expected to live.

At the Belasco theater they have named the star's dressing room, occupied by Frances Starr, the "Doll's House." For the long, narrow room, where a sheet protects the gowns of the "Rose of the Rancho" on one side and the great electric bulb jeweled mirror flashes back magnified reflections on the other, overflows with toys. There are wax dolls, bisque dolls, dolls of all nations, and there are wardrobes and carriages for the motley doll family, which is ruled by a huge and ferocious brown Teddy bear.

Justina Wayne, being met half way up the six flights of tortuous stairs in a building given over to the offices of managers and agents, gaspingly explained why, being a little young person to whom the necessity of reduction is a remote spectre, she chose to walk rather than ride, "It's that dreadful elevator man," she said, going pale. "Haven't you noticed? When we get into the lift he calls out in that sepulchral voice, 'All in!' and when we make the descent he growls, 'Down—and out.' I shan't ride in that elevator again, not until I've signed for at least three seasons."

"The Round Up" has made such a remarkable hit at the New Amsterdam theater that it will not be sent on the road when Colonel Henry W. Savage's London success, "The Merry Widow," comes to that house on the 21st inst. "The Round Up" will be transferred to the Broadway theater, where it will remain for several weeks and where it will undoubtedly repeat the really wonderful popular successes it has made at the New Amsterdam. The thrilling battle spectacle in the realistic feature that has been presented on the New York stage in many years. Over three hundred actors, cavalrymen, cowboys and Indians appear in this scene.

Mrs. Barney Williams, whose acting delighted playgoers thirty years ago, suffered an attack of paralysis a few days ago while staying at the home of her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. G. H. B. Mitchell, at Garden City, L. I. Mrs. Williams is nearly eighty-three years old, and enjoyed excellent health until September 24, when she went to New York on business, and the journey proved too much for her. Dr. Bartlett, her physician, says that she is slowly recovering. Her house in West Seventy-second street has been put in order, and she will be removed there if her condition gets worse. Mrs. Williams retired from the stage in 1876 after the death of her husband, a well known actor of Irish roles, and has never appeared since except at an occasional benefit.

Klaw and Erlanger presented Henry Arthur Jones' latest play "The Evangelist" at the Knickerbocker theater last Monday evening for the first time in New York. It proved very powerful drama which is likely because of its theme and daring treatment, to provoke wide and very spirited discussion among theater goers, church people and the clergy like. This is undoubtedly the most serious of all Mr. Jones' serious plays, and is, perhaps, in many respects, his ablest contribution to dramatic literature. In the development of the story, he creates a relation between the church and the stage, if none exists, as some people claim, by presenting on the stage some of the problems that confront the church, and in doing so brings forcibly home the battle between the denomination-alists themselves and liberal-minded without making an attack upon any one sect.

Lillian Russell on Marriage. In an article prepared for publication, Lillian Russell, Thursday, at Cincinnati, Ohio, declared a few thoughts on "Love, Divorce and Matrimony." Excerpts follow: "I do not believe a marriage contract should be permanent. Under existing conditions it is impossible for a woman to know what a man is, and for a man to know what a woman is, until they have been married. "Divorce is one of the greatest blessings in the world to-day. It is moral degradation for a woman and a man to live together as man and wife after love has passed away. For the woman I can imagine no more terrible fate than to be fettered to a man she has ceased to love. Divorce is a necessity. The present condition of affairs is deplorable. Nine marriages out of ten are unhappy. I do not wish to give the impression that I am a free-thinker, and I would not have marriage abolished. But the system as it now is, is faulty. "I think the responsibility for unhappy marriages lies mostly with the women. If she did not feel she was obliged to marry, there would be less unhappy marriages. "There is less excuse for the stage woman to go astray than there is for others who are less independent. A woman's financial independence is her greatest blessing. It will keep many a one from saying the fatal 'yes' when it should be 'no.' "I want to warn girls against proposals tainted with the smell of whiskey. Such marriages are always unhappy.

"Every girl and woman should have some sort of religion. It may be Mohammedan, Buddhist, Christian Science—anything, just so there is a strong belief in something. Religion helps a girl over the rough places. With it she will be good—unless she wishes to be bad."

POLI'S

"EAST LYNNE."

The remarkable prosperity and wonderful longevity attained by "East Lynne" can be explained only by the fact that the story the play unfolds is intensely human. It will be seen at Poli's to-night. Although numberless dramas have been written in imitation of this excellent play, not one of them reaches the depths of feeling or sounds the note of human appeal as truly as does this dramatic picture of the joys and sorrows of the beautiful, unfortunate Lady Isabel. To adequately portray the varying emotions of this complex character is a task requiring not only the charm of youthful beauty, but a marked degree of histrionic ability as well. Popular prices.

MOVING PICTURES.

An exhibition of motion views will be shown at Poli's to-morrow evening that will be well worth witnessing. The Imperial Moving Picture Co. has arranged a program of novelties which will furnish much entertainment. The feature is called "An Arcadian Elopement," and is said to be very interesting. Another hit picture is "The Fortune" New Illustrated songs will be introduced.

"THE GAMBLER OF THE WEST."

Little Great Bear is only an Indian pappoose in the beginning of A. H. Wood's play "The Gambler of the West," but after many thrilling escapes from Indians and desperadoes by the heroine in search of her lost eight-year-old brother the mighty warrior of diminutive size sheds his war paint and turns out to be the "feller" she's searching for. "The Gambler of the West" will be the attraction at Poli's Tuesday, October 8, matinee and night. Popular prices.

Jacques

VAUDEVILLE.

A bill of great merit will be seen at the Jacques next week and will be headed by the Willie Pantzer company in the best acrobatic act ever seen on the vaudeville stage. The offering has been the biggest kind of a hit everywhere it has appeared and is said to be entirely different than anything ever offered before. The added feature will be Mr. and Mrs. Howard Truesdale in the side-splitting farce "Two Men and a Bottle." Another big feature will be the appearance of Miss Bertha Waltzinger, the comic opera prima donna, who will be heard in a number of songs. Miss Waltzinger has been the leading lady with DeWolf Hopper, Jefferson De Angelis and other comic opera stars and is known as one of the best vocalists on the stage. Jimmy Lucas, the western monologist, will make his first appearance here. He has been a winner in the eastern houses and will no doubt be a big novelty here. Other acts on the bill are Howard and Howard, Eckoff and Gordon, Apdake's animals and the electrograph. Poli's popular prices.

EUTERPEAN QUARTETTE.

The wide interest which has been awakened in the Euterpean quartette's concert in the Buckingham Music hall on Thursday evening, October 22, gives assurance that it will be a most successful opening of the local musical season. The special feature of the evening will be the appearance of David Bispham, the distinguished baritone, who has never been heard in Waterbury before, and whose work, it is anticipated, will be a rare treat. Ludwig W. Hoffman, the New York Philharmonic society's premier cellist, will also appear. The selections by the Euterpean quartette are now being rehearsed under the direction of I. B. Clark. It was erroneously announced that the St. John's Musical association would take part in the concert. The association will confine itself to aiding the quartette in the disposal of tickets and other details, but will not sing. The tickets may be secured at the leading music stores. They cost 75 cents and $1.

Crawford

Heating Boilers

For Steam and Hot Water Heating

To those who want heat—and plenty of it—at the least cost of care or money, we suggest an inspection of the new "Crawford" and "Walker" boilers. In these boilers the size rated to heat your house is guaranteed to heat it. You don't have to get the "next larger size." And that is where they differ from all other boilers.

Here are some of the features:

1. All heating surfaces surrounded by water.
2. No perishable packed joints, no sheet iron parts, no brick linings.
3. Large grate area—with interchangeable grate bars instantly removable.
4. "Heat Ribs" cast on the interior of the boiler; save coal.
